

Although I appreciate the desire of the Low Power FM supporters to establish Low Power FM service, I would strongly disagree in allowing that service at the expense of current users of existing FM signals. I listen to an existing FM translator signal on 90.7 FM on a daily basis which carries family friendly programming and a positive message. Current listeners have as much right to be able to continue to receive existing stations as do those who wish to begin broadcasting Low Power FM radio.